POETICAL.

To A C. A.

Thou art not happy—saidst thou not?
Hast e'er made others so?
Hast never caused a heart to bleed,
Or sorrow's tear to flow?

Thou art not happy—hast thou tried
To soothe the wounded heart?
And to the weary, troubled breast
One ray of hope impart?

Thou art not happy—didst ever yet
The balm of consolation give?
Or whisper to an injured one
That sweetest word—forgive?

Thou art not happy—search thy heart,
Thy every action scan,
And see if thou canst not discern
Some act unworthy man.

If so, but turn thy steps aright,
In honor's brighter way,
And he, to whom dark shadows come,
Will see a happy day.

It is not wealth, or fame, that makes
A conscience free from sting—
'Tis goodness, purity and truth,
True happiness can bring.

The Country Lassie and her Lover

"To-morrow ma, I'm sweet sixteen,
And Billy Grimes, the drover,
Has popp'd the question to me, ma,
And wants to be my lover!
To-morrow morn, he says, mamma,
He's coming here quite early,
To take a pleasant walk with me
Across the field of barley."

"You must not go, my gentle dear,
There's no use now a talking;
You shall not go across the field
With Billy Grimes a walking.
To think of this presumption, too!
The dirty, ugly drover,
I wonder where your pride is gone,
To think of such a rover!"

"Old Grimes is dead you know, mamma,
And Billy is so lonely!
Beside, they say, to Grimes' estate,
That Billy is the only
Surviving heir to all that's left,
And that, they say, is nearly
A good ten thousand dollars, ma—
About six hundred yearly!"

"I did not hear, my daughter dear,
Your last remarks quite clearly,
But Billy is a clever lad,
And no doubt loves you dearly!
Remember then, to-morrow morn,
To be up bright and early,
To take a pleasant walk with him
Across the field of barley!"

I Would'nt—Would You?

We wouldn't give much for subscribers or readers
Who 'take' in your newspaper all the year through,
Who flatter the 'spirit' and 'tone' of your 'leaders,'
But never pay over the printer his due!
We would'nt give much for such patrons—
WOULD YOU?

SUNDAY READING.

THE SABBATH.

The Lord's day can never be trifled with but at our peril. Like every appointment of our benevolent Creator, it was instituted for the benefit of his creatures, wisely adapted to fulfil its purpose; and he who sells its privileges for gain, or barters them for pleasure, makes a poor bargain indeed. Selfishness, narrow, ungenerous, short-sighted selfishness, generally outwits itself; and this is especially the case with employers, who, regardless of the comfort, health and morality of the employed, engage them in labor on this day; and thereby deprive them of its benefits. The interests of the employers are inseperably connected with the well being of the employed. The labor of a healthy, steady, honest, intelligent workman, is of double value to that of him who cannot be depended upon, whose moral principles are unsound, or his habits irregular, whose mind is uncultivated, or his body debilitated by disease. And those who engage men in labor or business upon the first day of the week, may blame themselves, if, in a few years, they find it difficult to have their work well performed, and discover that their property is far from being secure.

The Sabbath has, with beautiful propriety, been called, "the poor man's day;" and it seems indeed, peculiarly adapted to confer important advantages upon him, not one of these, however, is obtained at the expense of the employers. Its blessings are suited to all classes, but the working classes require its provisions for their happiness. If the servant, after a week of labor, enjoys a day of rest and appears in the meeting of the disciples of Jesus, clean, comfortably dressed, he may with hearty good will enter upon the labors of another week. A feeling of self-respect, and a sense of moral obligation, raise him above eye-service or anything like slight, sluggish or improper performance of labor; a feeling which, though it cannot stoop to cringing servility, would sooner brook disrespect than show it to another, whether employer or fellow servant; and a sense of moral obligation which makes him faithful in whatever he is entrusted with, enables him to understand and claim his own rights, and induces him without reserve to give to others their due.

The Sabbath interferes with the interest of none but those who live by ignorance, superstition, vice and degradation of mankind; those who have their wealth from Babylon the Great, who traffic in the souls of men.

Let all then of every class and station, examine this subject—the more it is viewed in the light of truth, the more its importance will appear. He who is desirous of the well being of his fellow men, ought not, and cannot consistently, pass it lightly by, and even he whose contracted mind looks only at his personal interests, may not safely slight it.

PRAYER.—It is sometimes said, that God does not need our prayers. But neither does he need our works. He requires them both of us, not for His sake, but for ours. We must labor if we would reap, because labor is good for us; we must pray if we would receive the gift, because praying is essential to our well being. The immediate object of prayer and labor entices us to a more concealed, but richer blessing.

☞ True Religion will show its influence in every part of our conduct; it is like the sap of a living tree, which penetrates the most distant boughs.

INSENSIBILITY TO DAILY MERCIES.—As the Dead Sea drinks in the river Jordan and is never sweeter, and the Ocean all other rivers and is never the fresher, so we are apt to receive daily mercies from God, and still remain insensible of them. God's mercies to us are like the dew on the ground; our thanks to him like the dew on the fleece. We are greedy to get mercy, tenacious to hold it; but unthankful in acknowledging, or right using of it. The rain comes down from Heaven in showers; it goes up but in mists.—BISHOP REYNOLDS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WOMAN'S ADMINISTRATION.

THE MOTHER, SISTER, AND DAUGHTER.

As the mother of her race, woman has certain physical functions to discharge in which she is necessarily exclusive. No other can be her agent or act to the smallest extent in her stead. These functions engross most of her energies—they occupy a considerable portion of her life, and are of vital importance to the whole family of man. She is expressly designed for their discharge, and her adaptation to them in structure is as perfect as omnipotent power and wisdom could make it. Her maternal duties, too, are of a peculiar and very arduous character. They do not require the strength of a man, but the quickness, tact, sensibility, tenderness and patience, which exist only in the sacred relation of mother. These qualities her physical structure prepares her to exhibit; and her strong maternal love, like a radiant atmosphere, surrounds them all, and gives life and beauty to each. Let the mind dwell for a moment on the love of a mother towards her child, and we shall see that such an one subsists between no other beings. Earth has nothing more beautiful, nor can mortal magination attribute to heaven anything more holy. It is kindled into being amid mortal agony and peril. Its object is the feeblest of animated beings, with no qualities to animate the mind, no capacity to appreciate and return the affection lavished upon it, and only a far off prospect of arriving at such a state, with years of care, toil, and anxiety between. Yet how tenderly does the mother's heart yearn over this little being! How its first feeble wail thrills upon her weary ear! How earnestly she scans its fragile form, beautiful only to her loving eyes! How gladly she now renounces the liberty which has hitherto been her happiness, and sits down for many months at the side of the unconscious little being; while her heart thrills with a strange joy during all these days and nights of vigil, mingled with pain only when suffering sits upon her infant's brow, or death hovers over its couch.

A father schemes for his own aggrandisement. True, he looks transmitting his wealth and honors to his children when he shall have enjoyed them. But with him this is a secondary object. With the true woman it is the Alpha and Omega. Through life, if need be, she will toil for her child, and spend her last farthing to promote its comfort, though famine sits upon her own lips. She will pray Heaven in his behalf, though she invoke only blasphemous curses on every other being. There is no crime she will not forgive in him, no disgrace she will not share. If all the world proclaim him a dishonored wretch, she remembers only that she bore him, and opens her arms to receive him. Her most ardent hopes and wishes follow him through life, and hover over his pathway like a smile from a better world. Death alone can quench a mother's love.

The sister is another of the beautiful offices which it is given to woman to fill. If her affection is less ardent and exclusive than that of the mother, it is equally widespread. She is guardian spirit of her brothers, the teacher and friend of her sisters; second in both these relations to the mother alone. She must be affectionate, obliging, persuasive. She must acquire knowledge, accomplish herself, refine her sentiments, discipline her feelings, and enrich the paternal home with every charm that may bind the wavering brother there, before his character is ripened, and his principles so fixed as to resist temptation. She is the companion of the brother abroad. Her youth enables her to sympathise with him, while her strong affection and purity should in the absence of the mother, make her daughter the representative to strengthen his integrity, to exalt his sense of truth and honor, and by a lively but unostentatious care preserve him from temptation. She may aid the mother likewise, in cultivating a love of knowledge. By means of her own intelligence, she may do much during the early years of the boy, to prepare him for intercourse with the world. She may enrich his mind by her industry, and at the same time preserve him in his weakest hours from the evil to which the world invites him. What a noble being is a pure-minded, high-souled, generous and affectionate sister! Whose heart does not warm under her influence? What a beautiful opportunity does her station present, to plant with her own hand, flowers that shall bud and blossom on her tomb!

As the daughter, woman's duty is unfailing kindness and reverence. It is not by great deeds of sacrifice and heroism, that she will best prove her filial love and fidelity, but by the thousand little attentions which in a daughter so much minister to the sober happiness of the meridian and evening of life. No voice so gentle as hers, in the sick chamber of the mother. No ear so keenly open to the wants of the aged father, no step so light in his service. She is the link between his bright morning and his fading twilight. While the son on whom his pride reposes, is abroad, breasting the surges of a selfish world the daughter whom he loves, remains by his side, to bless and beautify his quiet home. She stays his tottering steps, she smooths his blanched and wasted locks, she adjusts his cushion chair, and in her leisure hours amuses his wandering mind with books or papers, or her own version of some interesting topic. She bears his little humors without parading her pity for his weakness, and is untiring in her thousand offices of love.

O what were age without woman—woman in her true sphere—the Home? Not woman abroad, engaged in labor of business; not woman engrossed in public affairs, canvassing elections, holding courts, making laws, or buying and selling goods on 'change or elsewhere; but woman, shut away from the clamor of the world, at the clean and social fireside—presiding over the well-ordered household—cherishing with pious care the child and father with the solicitude of true affection, supplying the unuttered wants of her reversed charge, and by her presence and gentle voice pouring light and melody into the dull sense of age and decrepitude! These are holy privileges, and their very necessity is one of the most exalted schools of virtue, well adapted and designed to prepare the daughter for her vocation and duties as a mother. The ancient tale which the Poet Artist has embodied in the inimitable stanzas that describe the fair, fresh daughter, returning to her sire from her own breast, the life he gave, is one of the loveliest pictures on which the heart can dwell. Even if a fable, it illustrates with touching strength and beauty a daughter's love.

PRETTY GOOD.—'Sir,' said a little blustering man to his religious opponent, in front of the Tremont Temple last Sunday evening, 'I say, sir, to what sect do you think I belong?'

'Well I don't exactly know,' replied the other; 'but to judge from your make, size, and appearance, I should say you belonged to a class called the insect."

The little bug crawled off as fast as possible.

☞ An Irish recruit was asked by his officer, "what is your height?" To which he replied:—The man that measured me told me it was five feet ten, or ten feet five, I am not exactly sure which, but it was either the one or the other.

☞ A pair of Irishmen, who were recently travelling towards the Iron City, came upon a mile board standing by the wayside, with this inscription upon it: "43 miles from Pittsburgh." Supposing it to be a tomb-stone, one of them gently tapped the other upon the shoulder, and in a low, sepulchral tone, said—"Tread lightly Jammy; here lies the dead; 43 years ould, an' his name is Miles, from Pittsburgh.

GENTLE REPROOF.

We have all read of the husband who in a moment of hasty wrath, said to her who but a few months before united her faith to his—"If you are not satisfied with my conduct, go; return to your friends and happiness."

"And will you give me back that which I brought to you?"

"Yes," he replied, "all your wealth shall go with you—I covet it not."

"Alas!" she answered, "I thought not of my wealth——I spoke of my maiden affections——of my buoyant hope—of my devoted love—can you give these back to me?"

"No," said the man, throwing himself at her feet, "no, I cannot restore these; I will do more; I will keep them unsullied and unstained, I will cherish them through my life, and in my death, and never again will I forget that I have sworn to protect and to cheer her who gave up to me all she held most dear."

Did I not tell you that there was poetry in a woman's look—a woman's word. See it here! the mild gentle reproof of love winning back from its harshness and rudeness the stern and unyielding temper of an angry man. Ah, if creation's fairer sex only knew their strongest weapons, how many of wedlock's fierce battles would be unfought—how much of unhappiness and coldness would be avoided.—JUDGE CHARLTON.

☞ Somebody says he never knew a politicial abolitionist to put a negro into his best bed—nor a poor man to obtain a premium at a fair where there was a rich one to compete with him.

PILING UP THE AGONY.—Well, Anne, have you consented yet to be the wife of Mr. White?"

"No, Sally, I didn't quite consent."

"Why not? I think he loves you."

"Yes, but he didn't pile up the agony high enough. When I give my hand to a wooer, I want him to call upon the gods to witness his deep devotion to me. I want him to kneel at my feet, take one of my hands between both of his, and with a look that would melt adamantine rock to pity, to beg me to take compassion on his dreadful sufferings; and then I want him to end by swearing to blow his brains out on the spot, if I do not compassionate his miseries."

☞ Some young ladies, feeling aggrieved by the severity with which their friends speculated on the gay plumes, flounces, necklaces, rings, etc., went to their pastor to learn his opinion. "Do you think," said they, "there can be any impropriety in our wearing these things?" "By no means," was the prompt reply, "when the heart is full of ridiculous notions, it is perfectly proper to hang out the sign."

☞ A writer on swearing, says, that an oath from a woman's lips is unnatural and incredible, and he would as soon expect a bullet from a rosebud.

HUMAN NATUR!—Names and localities have not been given us, but we have been assured that the following anecdote is true. Before giving it, however, we will say what we think, and that is, that fortune hunting is less a female than a male occupation, hereabouts. But to the story: A young man visited a place of fashionable summer resort in the Old Dominion, and caused the friend who introduced him to whisper that he was worth three hundred thousand dollars. His sojourn was but seven days, in which time he courted seventeen young ladies, fourteen promised him, three waived a promise, he kissed eleven and got nine rings, which he traded for juleps, and left!

THE PASSION STRONG IN DEATH.—While Moore, the great scholar and punster, was employed on his edition of Hebraisms, one day he was told that his wife was suddenly ill. "I have only two or three sentences to translate, and then I'll come and look at her." A second message informed him that she was dying. "I have only two words to write, and will be there as soon as you are," replied Moore.—At length he was told that his wife was dead. "I'm sorry for it; indeed, she was a very honest woman."

☞ A petition has been presented to our legislature, praying for a State Reform School for young girls. We suppose the girls have stayed out of shape for so long a time that they ought to be reformed.

☞ 'I do declare Sal, you look pretty enough to eat.' 'Well, Solomon, aint I eating as fast as I can?' replied Sal, with her mouth full.

COOPERING.—In a country paper the marriage is announced of a Mr. Cooper to a Miss Staves. The result will probably be Barrels!

☞ Do combs eat? If not, why in conscience do they have teeth! That's the question.

☞ Wives should always set up for their husbands, instead of getting their servants to do so.—It makes two hours difference in their arrival.

☞ Why is a belle like a locomotive? Because she throws off the sparks, transports the mails, (males,) and says so the tender, pine (k) not!

SONG.—Oh, marry the man you love, girls, if you can get him at all; if he is as rich as Cresus, or as poor as Job in his fall. Pray, do not marry for pelf girls,—'twill bring your soul into thrall; but marry the man you love, girls, if his purse be ever so small. Oh, never marry a fop, girls, whether he's little or tall; he will make a fool of himself and you—he knows nothing well but to drawl. But marry a sober man, girls, there are but few on this ball; and you'll never rue the day girls, that you ever married at all.

The editor of the Methuen Gazette makes the following very sweeping assertion: "What, a man, and never in love! P'shaw! Such a man must have a heart of ice, a soul as lifeless as a corn-cob, the gizzard of a goose, and a head as sappy as a cocoa nut.

A matrimonial fever has seized upon all the bachelors out west, and wives are scarce and in demand, being the dearest article in the markets.

May is a month that puts love and devilry into the heads of everything, beginning with dairy maids and leaving off with hesjaponicas. "Squeeth my hand, Simon, and keep my head from becoming dithey."

Two farmers met in the street, when one said "This is fine weather, I hope everything will come out of the earth." "Except my wife, who was buried ten days ago," the other quickly replied.

A WORD IN SEASON.

The 10th of June, the day appointed for the meeting of the Whig State Convention, is near at hand and but little time is left for those counties which have not already appointed delegates, to act. It is important for the good of the party and of the State, that there should be a full attendance at that meeting. In order that the claim of every section should be considered, it must send its delegates to make them known. Should they fail to do so, they ought to acquiesce in the decision of the Convention, and adopt and support the measures it shall purpose, for it is presumable that the wisdom and talent of the Whig party in the State will determine the wisest and most practical plan to be pursued in the next campaign.

This matter is urgent. It calls for the prompt and harmonious action of the whole party. Our opponents have no hope of success save in a division of our ranks. With a good understanding, and perfect unanimity amongst the Whigs, success is certain. Why then should there be any hesitation? What can be gained by delay? Will it add strength to our party, or increase its energy and its power? Will carelessness and inactivity insure success which can only be secured by unity of purpose, of action and of feeling? Are not the interests of our State as dear to us as they have ever been? Have we any doubt of the truth and power of the principles we advocate? Will a slight difference of opinion on a matter merely local and temporary in its character, serve to distract our councils, and bring defeat and disgrace upon us? We believe that no true Whig can be found who will not feel ready and willing and anxious to throw all his weight of influence so as to secure the success of those principles for which the party has so long and so triumphantly battled.

Many counties have appointed their delegates, and many will be represented in the Convention; but we desire to see the largest possible number present so as to give more weight and effect to their deliberations. Many counties have taken no action on this subject, the time is short and it is expected that they will perform this duty soon. It would afford us sincere pleasure to see every county in the State represented. The season is favorable for a large assembly, and it will be as convenient for members to attend at that time as any other. Let, then, every county act promptly in this matter. Let all come up in a spirit of harmony and devotion to their principles, and the State may well confide in the wisdom and integrity of their actions.

Our opponents are waiting for every opportunity to take advantage of a division in our ranks. They see no possible chance of success in any other event; hence they rejoice at any manifestation of any dissatisfaction or disagreement in any member of the Whig party; and willingly use all their power to make and widen a breach in our ranks. A large attendance upon this convention will enable the Whigs to defeat this purpose of the Locos, and to maintain that supremacy in the management of State affairs, which is essentially necessary to the interest and welfare of the whole people.—Raleigh Star.

HATRED FROM FEAR.

The last Standard takes occasion, in publishing the speech of a man by the name of Ross, to follow up his former abuse of Mr. Stanly, in his usual way of vaguely alluding to certain passages of Mr. Stanly's speech, and then lumping the condemnation. It could publish Mr. Ross's speech, a man that no one in North Carolina either knows or cares anything about,—but is contented to be all the time attacking Mr. Stanly's, by innuendo and at second-hand, without even quoting the language of the speech to which it excepts, by a single paragraph. Any one (it don't take a County Court lawyer,) can pick out a few detached words and phrases from a speech, as the Editor of the Standard has done in his last, we suppose, from Mr. S's, and, we dare to say, make treason out of them—while, in the context they stand for sound doctrine and good sense.

We think it about time for the Editor of the Standard to come out from behind his bush; and if he designs making war upon Mr. Stanly, let him do it upon his own book, and boldly and fairly.—Such has not been his course heretofore. He has rather sought to use other means. He forgot how he called upon the "Star" to denounce Mr. Stanly, and to bring a personal matter to bear upon the political course of a public man, and a distinguished member of the Whig party. Is he not using the agency of others, who have heretofore stood with the Whig party, but who, from personal pique and malice, are now abusing Mr. Stanly when he publishes their articles, and endorses them by declaring that they do not hit him "a lick amiss?" And such "Indian" warfare, perhaps, he wishes to pass off for fair and honorable! We trust he will discard it and come into the open light of day.

That the speech of Mr. Stanly will rankle in the Locofoco breasts which it transfixed, for many a day there can be no doubt. It is curious to notice, however, the different modes in which it is assailed. Mr Clingman, finding himself awkwardly situated by this speech, published a letter in which he charged Mr. Stanly with printing more than he had spoken. Mr. Stanly met the statement with flat denial, and Mr. Clingman said nothing more.

Now, since the speech has been read at home—and when no "treason" can be found in it,—the Standard, quoting one of his "allies," declares that it is not the same speech which was delivered, but one written out afterwards. The insinuation here is that something has been omitted—though Mr. Clingman said just the contrary! Why these contradictions? Mr. Stanly has been charged with "treason;" with being "unsound on the slavery question;" with being "opposed to the South, and sympathizing with the North"—but the Speech shows none of this—and then one party charges him with printing more than he had spoken! and the other with leaving something out!!—Those Editors here, who take this latter view, not having been present when the speech was delivered, ought to be able to bring some proof. Let them specify if they dare, the sentiment or word that was omitted. But, indeed, let them point out the passages they condemn. It won't do to charge that he said unknown things, and then omitted them from the printed speech! Mr. Clingman stands in the way of that—he was wounded, he says, quite a different way! It was printing more than was spoken that hurt him. We challenge these mourners to specify what they say was omitted. We know Mr. Stanly well enough to believe, that if, by accident, he omitted anything he said against Locofocoism, if he can find it out, he will print it, and stand by it! Can any one ask for more?

We are well convinced, that, with the fault-finding spirit in which Mr. Clingman took up this Speech, had Mr. Stanly suppressed anything he would have said so! Let him, or Mr. Venable or any other of the Southern Democracy, allies or brethren of the Standard, who heard the speech delivered, testify for their friend what has been omitted?—Why can they not, if the speech is so full of "treason," expose Mr. Stanly on the floor of the house? Let them try it!—cannot the Standard induce them to make the attempt? Indeed, why have they not done so long ago? If to call a man "a traitor" would prove him so, the Standard would be all right. Edward Stanly is a terror to "the party"—and the hatred of Locofocoism is his natural right!

What say the true Whigs of North Carolina? Are they willing to give up Mr. Stanly, because this hue and cry is raised against him by the Agitators and Disunionists of the State, who are sore because he rebuked and exposed their bad schemes against the Administration and against the Union, and stood up bodily in support of the one, and for the integrity and preservation of the other? Not so—his cause is their cause: and they will sustain him, as a main pillar of their defence against the enemies of the country.—Ral. Times.

"I wonder what has become of the snuffers?" said Mrs. Johnson, "I have been looking for them all the evening, and can't find them high nor low?" Nobody could give her any information. After a while the hired Dutchman, getting sleepy, commenced pulling off his boots, preparatory to going to bed. "All dis day," said he, "I tink I kot some little grabble stones in my poot. I kess I kit 'em out, now." He turned up his boot and poured out the snuffers.

VERY AFFECTING.—A farmer going to get his grist ground at a mill borrowed a bag of one of his neighbors. The unfortunate man was knocked into the water-wheel, and the bag with him. He was drowned; and when the melancholy news was brought to his wife, she exclaimed, "My gracious! what a fuss there 'll be about that bag!"

THE TELEGRAPH.

THURSDAY, MAY 23, 1850.

SUN RISES, 4h. 57m. SUN SETS 7h. 3m.

☞State Whig Convention will meet in Raleigh on the 10th June next.

☞ There is no fact better understood, than that excellence of any kind in any business, will not be rewarded, unless it is advertised, while, by a liberal system of advertising, the public are soon enabled to test a man's merits, and reward them accordingly. We are lead to these remarks, from what we saw on our visit to Wilmington, a few days ago. We were struck with the very cheap prices goods sold at by the Wholesale, and our Country Merchants would find it much to their interest to make their purchases in Wilmington, and thereby save the expense and fatigue of a trip, twice a year, to New York. Read the advertisements, in this day's paper, of Messrs. Robinson, Thompson, Polley, and others, for Hardware, and when you "go to town," look at their articles, the cheapness of which astonish the public.

HON. EDWARD STANLY.

We love the name. Whenever we find a real, independent, staight forward, fearless, and determined patriot, we know not when to cease speaking in his praise. Such is Edward Stanly. He cannot consent to smuggling, or any underhanded measures. If there is anything "rotten in Denmark," Mr. Stanly is the man to feret it out. Locofocoism fears Edward Stanly, as the condemned sinner fears a just God. Whenever Mr. Stanly raises his giant arm, Locofocoism quails with intense horror and dread.—No wonder they labor so incessantly to kill him off. They know they fear him. Even the giant Standard, (by way of "begging the question") speaking of Mr. Stanly's "Bill for Investigation," says, "he has no more idea of liberality than a goose has of Christmas."—When Mr. Stanly is about to tree them they plead liberality. Many a time will they have cause or excuse for entering that plea. Investigation, unless a little humbug is mixed with it, is not to be found in their vocabulary. Give it to them, Mr. Stanly, make them toe the mark, and North Carolina, yea, the whole nation, will reward you.

CARRIAGE TRIMMING.

Our friends will see from an advertisement in to-day's paper, that Mr. G. C. Jones, of this Town, is prepared to Trim Carriages, &c. We have seen some of Mr. Jones' work, and think it very neat. We hope our friends will patronise him.

THE SOUTHERN ORGAN.

A considerable number of the Southern Senators and Representatives in Congress, held a meeting at the Capitol, on the 7th inst., for the purpose of taking into consideration the propriety of establishing a Southern paper at Washington.

Hon. A. P. Butler, of South Carolina, presented an address, which was signed by the following gentlemen from North Carolina, and about three-fourths of the remaining Southern Senators and Representatives: Hon. W. P. Mangum, of the Senate, and Hon. T. L. Clingman, Hon. W. S. Ashe, and Hon. A. Venable, of the House of Representatives.

☞ We tender our thanks to the Hon. Edward Stanly, for a bound volume of the President's Messages, and accompanying documents, for the years of 1849 and '50 And to the Hon. T. L. Clingman, for Public Documents.

JEWELRY STORE.

When in Wilmington, last week, we visited the Jewelry establishment of Mr. T. C. Brown, and can assure our friends, if they want fine and cheap Jewelry, they have only to examine his extensive stock, to please themselves. He has the greatest variety we have ever seen.

THE NASHVILLE CONVENTION.

We believe the friends of the Nashville Convention have desired it to be postponed indefinitely. The representatives from the Wilmington District have published a card to that effect, and will consequently not attend We hope there never will be any sufficient cause for such a Convention.

A GOOD RULE.—A posmaster informed us the other day, (says an exchange,) that he made it a rule never to requeet the discontinuance of a paper if the subscriber is in arrears, and did not at the same time forward the amount due. Should this practice generally prevail, it would be a powerful protection to publishers. It would have a tendency to convince delinquent subscribers, that by law they are responsible till all arrearages are paid.

"My kingdom for a line."

A WORD TO THE WHIG PARTY.

The time is advancing, almost with the rapidity of thought, when you will have to cast your votes for those who are to make your laws and administer them. Who are the men? Are they in the field, or are you sleeping upon your oars, waiting for your enemies to rally their forces and take the citadel? Will you remain inactive, as if you had no part or lot in the matter? Are you waiting for others to do the work?—"Will you stand all the day idle."

You have a Governor to elect! Will you be represented in the Convention? Have you appointed delegates? or shall your county be without representatives? If you have a choice, go to the Convention, and let your views be known, and they will be respected. Don't stay away, and then growl over the action of the "Central Clique," and kill off our candidate with faint praise. What a gloomy picture it would be, to see in Angust, through the indifference of a few Whigs, a democratic Governor elected in the good Old North State. Will you suffer it? We appeal to you as true Republican Whigs, descendants of the glorious old Whigs of '76. Bring out your whole force—let every county in the State be represented in the Convention. How decidedly unpleasant would you feel for the Locos to shout in your ears your own defeat. How humiliating! Then to action! ACTION!! ACTION!!!

Bring out your candidates for the Legislature. Bring out your strong men. Consult one with another, with a view to the benefit of the State, and the great Republican party of our country. Let there be unanimity in you counsels. Sacrifice your preferences to the good of the party.

Organize! ORGANIZE!! ORGANIZE!!! Whatever other States may do, let North Carolina "never surrender." And it is with you to say whether these things shall come to pass or not. Through the indifference of one Whig, the whole State may be lost.—Let there be unanimity and action, and North Carolina will be as true as the needle to the pole.

Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.

WASHINGTON, May 18, 1850.

The proceedings in Congress have, at last, indicated the leader of the southern ultras. It is the honorable Senator from Florida, Mr. Yulee, who is now marshaling his claims to the onslaught on the compromise and the Union! The representative of one half of the smallest State in the Union—a State which has cost the Union enough money to guild every cypress tree (leaves, stem and branches) of her dreary swamps, is now unfolding the banner of disunion and civil war; and reproaching the committee of thirteen and the lone star of Texas, that has floated over many a hard won battle field, with "prostitution."

Let us see what the southern ultras want, and what they may get. Suppose they succeed in defeating the bill, will that better their condition? Will they then obtain better terms? Will they be able to prevent California from coming in by herself? Certainly not They will have delivered their northern friends to the executioner—they will have established their opponents in power, and the free soilers of the North will lord it over them They have now the power to strike down the free soilers, Col. Benton, Seward and all the fanatics opposed to peace and fraternity: but they prefer an alliance with them, in order to throw the nation into fits, that they may be called in as quack doctors, to prescribe for her. They want to throw the South into convulsions, in order that they may hoist the standard of disunion—the very thing their opponents wish them to do, in order to overwhelm them!

This is a reckless and foolish game, which their constituents will not tolerate and for which they will be held responsible. Mean while, will slaves go to California? Will the South practically gain any thing by preventing territorial governments from being established in Utah and New Mexico? Will they not, by the very delay of the measure, give the free soil party a new and powerful impulse which will render slave property still more insecure in those territories than it now is? and will they not thus practically exclude slavery from all the territory acquired from Mexico?

The Southern ultras will place the South in a position infinitely worse than that it now occupies—in fact they will drive it to extreme measures, and then, not till then, will they perceive that the Union is stronger than they are, and that their own constituents will repudiate them. Mr. Yulee does not hold the State of Florida in the palm of his hand to dispose of her as he pleases. Mr., Turney cannot speak for Tennessee, which will elect a more faithful servant in his stead, should he help to defeat the compromise; and so on. These men will be stricken down at home, for having concluded an unnatural alliance with Hale, Seward, Benton, Chase and their abolition allies, and deserve to be stricken down—They will have betrayed the democratic party in the North and South, and they will have betrayed the South.

These gentlemen tell us what they mean to do?—We tell them we do not care for that. They have a vote now to be sure; but they will be powerless—hopelessly powerless—after they shall have defeated the compromise, and will not have many votes to give hereafter. They are usurping power over their constituents—they are betraying them; they cannot betray the Union.

After this session of Congress the issue will be a new one. It will be an issue between the men of peace and compromise, and the disunionists anxious for civil war. Let us see how many States will be willing to hoist the standard of rebellion. None, no not one! Here for instance is Tennessee, with Mr. Bell ready for a compromise; but Mr. Turney is against it and for disunion; with which Senator will the State go? Let us ask the delegation from Tennessee, and we shall find that Mr. Turney stands alone. He may hoist the red flag of disunion; but it will be torn to rags by the first broad side from the gallant tars on board the ship of state, under the union jack and the proud arms of Tennessee, streaming from her foremast. It will be so with others States. None will sully her 'scutcheon with fraternal blood. If such a contest ever comes, the demons of discord north and south, free-soilers, abolitionists and southern ultras, will be sunk to the bottom of the sea.

I say again, the South have the matter in hand. They can settle it if they please, and restore peace and harmony and fraternal feelings; and they may, if they choose, defeat it. Meanwhile their constituents must know that if the South is prostrated by a union of the southern ultras with the Free Soilers, it is their own Representatives and Senators who must be held accountable for the act. It will not do for the southern hotspurs to demean themselves so far as to form a partnership with the northern free soilers, after the manner of the two western travellers, of whom one had the itch—while the other sold the ointment. We want neither one nor the other; we wish to see the partners in such a concern scratch each other.

A PROLIFIC TREE.—It is averred by the Skowhegan (Me) Clarion, that a Mr. FLETCHER THOMPSON recently felled a pine tree in Dead River, from which he obtained 4000 feet of timber, and four bears.

DISTRESSING CASUALTY.

On Wednesday last, while LABAN CARROLL, about 17 years old, son of Mr. LABAN CARROLL, of this county, was walking behind a horse, a colt run between him and the horse, and the latter kicking at the colt, struck master CARROLL in the side, from which blow he instantly expired. He was a promising youth, and we deeply sympathise with his afflicted parents on this melancholy occasion.— Wil. Commercial.

"Where shall the Meeting be?"

TO AN ABSENT FRIEND.

Where shall the meeting be,
Absent one, say?
In the west where the golden orb
Parts with the day?
Or where the southern sun
Keeps the young Spring,
Crown'd with the choicest flowers
Nature can bring?

Say, hast thy restless soul
Folded its wing,
In the "sweet home,"
Of which you us'd sing?
Or dost thou wander still
O'er the earth,
In search of the place
Where pleasures have birth?

Where shall the meeting be?
Wanderer tell,
(Time worketh changes,
We all know it well.)
Yet canst thou point out
Ng dear chosen spot,
How arid and waste
It mattereth not.

When shall the meeting be?
While yet the years
Are hurrying us on,
With our hopes and our fears;
And the dawn of each morrow
Comes offering cheer—
The hope of yet meeting friends,
Cherished and dear.

Where shall the greeting be,
Here on the earth?
Where sorrows and joys have
Alternate birth?
Or in the spirit-land,
Whither we tend,
Sure as earth to its centre,
And life to its end?

There shall the meeting be,
Despite of the years,
And the "dark valley,"
Strengthning our fears.
There shall the meeting be,
Let us look up,
And heaven-ward press,
In the strength of that Hope.

THE FEMALE INTELLECT.

In an able criticism upon the new novel of "Shirly," the last Edinburgh Review has some remarks upon the comparative intellectual endowments of man and woman, which are among the most acute and discriminating that we have yet seen upon this subject. After remarking that there has been no Shakspeare, no Bacon, no Newton, no Milton, no Raphael, &c., among the fairer part of creation, the writer admits that these were the few who have carried off the high prizes to which millions of men were trained to aspire, while the number of Women who have had the benefit of such training has been comparatively insignificant. When the bearded competitors were numbered by thousands, and the smooth chinned by scores, what was the chance of the latter?—or how could their failure be ascribed to their inferiority as a class?

Still, after allowing the utmost force of these considerations, the writer doubts whether women can ever rival men in some departments of intellectual exertion—especially such as demand either long preparation, or a protracted effort of pure thought. "The grand function of women, it must be recollected," says he, "is, and ever will be, Maternity"—This must always "essentially interfere both with that steady and unbroken application; without which no proud eminence in science can be gained—and with the discharge of all official or professional functions that do not admit of long or frequent postponement."

"All women are intended by nature to be mothers; and by far the greater number—not less, we suppose, than nine tenths—are called upon to act in that sacred character; and consequetly, for twenty of the best years—those very years in which men either rear the grand fabric or lay the solid foundations of their fame and fortune—women are mainly occupied by the cares, the duties, the enjoyments and the sufferings of maternity. During large parts of these years, too, their bodily health is generally so broken and precarious as to incapacitate them for any strenuous exertion; and health apart, the greater portion of their time, thoughts, interests and anxieties ought to be, and generally are, centered in the care and the training of their children.

But how could such occupations consort with the intense and unremitting studies which seared the eyeballs of Milton, and for a time unsettled even the powerful brain of Newton? High art and science always require the man; and never yield their great prizes but to the devotion of a life. But the life of a woman, from her cradle upwards, is otherwise devoted; and whose lot it is to expend their best energies, from the age of twenty to the age of forty, in the cares and duties of maternity, have but slender chances of carrying off these great prizes.

It is the same with the functions of statesmanship, legislation, generalship, judgeship, and other elevated stations and pursuits, to which some women, we believe, have recenly asserted the equal pretensions of their sex. Their still higher and indispensible functions of maternity afford the answer to all such claims. What should we do with a leader of oppositon in the seventh month of her pregnancy? or a general in chief who at the opening of a campaign was 'doing as well as could be expected?' or a chief justice with twins?"

DUDLEY'S

Anti-Rheumatic OIL.

A certain and speedy Cure for Chronic Rheumatism, Spasms of the Muscles, Ligaments, and Back, and for Sprains, Bruises, and Contusions.

The history of this invaluable medicine is remarkable. It has risen into notice, and established a high and just reputation in the region of country where it has been tried, ALONE from the surprising and numerous cures it has effected. The Proprietor Dr Samuel Dudley, Hospital Surgeon, on the Island of Portsmouth, North Carolina, has used it with unfailing success, both in the Hospital, and in his private practice about twenty years. During that period it has been attracting public attention, and gradually rising into general and high reputation in all that region of country, solely, by the surprising certainty of the cures it has uniformely effected. Until very recently, it has never been advertised, nor have any pains been taken to extend its celebrity. Its high reputation therefore is permanent, because it is based upon surprising and UNFAILING experiments alone The Proprietor encouraged by its eminent success in cases of Chronic Rheumatism, and by the advice of his friends, and he will add actuated by a desire to extend as far as possible the benefits of its healing properties is now taking measures to make its wonderful properties more generally known All he asks is a fair trial. It is now offered to the afflicted in the Eastern portion of North Carolina. The proprietor is perfectly willing to put the result of its success or failure upon its success or failure in curing or failure to cure any case of Chronic Rheumatism, or other affection for which it is recommended

Certificates from highly respectable sources like the following, can be multiplied to almost any extent A few are appended.

The following has been politely furnished by that highly esteemed citizen Col. Joshua Taylor of Beaufort county N. C. well know as a valuable member of our State Senate, and at present Collector of the Port of Ocrecoke, North Carolina:—

"At the request of Dr. Samuel Dudley of Portsmouth, North Carolina, I state that some years ago one of my sons had a severe and protracted attack of Rheumatism, and by using his "Anti-Rheumatic Oil" he was relieved.

It gives me great pleasure to say, that besides this case, I have heard of others which convince me that this oil is very valuable in cases of Rheumatism.

JOSHUA TAYLCE.

Washington, N. C., 1848.

The High Sheriff of the County of Carteret, has placed the fellowing at the proprietors disposal—

This may certify, that I have been for many years afflicted with Rheumatism, and recently had an attack in the neck, and by the application of 'Dudley's Anti-Rheumatic Oil,' only three times, was in a few hours perfectly relieved.

GEORGE DILL.

Beaufort, N. C. Sept, 1848.

The following letter is from a respectable Druggist, I. Disosway, of Newbern, North Carolina.

Dr. S Dudley,

Dear Sir,—I have sold out almost all of the Anti-Rheumatic Oil sent me, and as I do not wish to get out of it, I should be glad if you would send me another supply. I can speak in the most decided term, in reference to the merits of the Oil. I have never known it to fail. It has been used by one of my kw the best results, by Mr Guion, late a member of the Legislature, and others and always with decided effect. I know of a person who has been unable to move a foot without assistance, who was cured in less than three days, and with using one bottle only. I can recommend it with confidence, and shall loose no opportunity of so doing. YOURS, &c. I. DISOSWAY.

Mitchell's Eye Salve.

To the Public.

THE concurrent testimony of men of integrity and worth is the best evidence we can have of any fact of which we have no cognizance ourselves. The great advantages possessed by this article over all other, are—its CERTAINTY, SAFETY, CONVENIENCE and ECONOMY. All physicians admit that great danger is to be apprehended from drugging the eye when in an inflamed and unhealthy state. In the use of this salve this objection is entirely removed, as no harm can possibly result from its use: it being in all cases applied to the EXTERNAL portions of the eye, thereby avoiding all the inconvenience, pain and danger, which necessarily attend the introduction of any pungent article INTO the eye. Its activity in subduing inflamation is so great that but few cases require the use of more than one bottle to effect a perfect cure. For sale at this office.

Jan. 10, 1850. 11-tf

Only 25 cents per box,

FOR the cure of Headache, Giddiness, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Piles, Heartburn, Worms, Dyspepsia, Cholera Morbus, Pains in the Back and Limbs, Liver complaint, Rising in the throat, Fevers of all kinds, Colds, Gout, Gravel, Female Complaints, Nervous complaints, and all other diseases arising from impurities of the blood, and morbid secretions of the liver and Stomach.

Every disease to which the human frame is subject, originates from impurities of the blood or derangement of digestive organs.

Dr. Gordon's Family Pills, being compounded exclusively of such ingredients as nature intended should operate on the impurities of the Human System. Strike at the root of the disease, removing all impurities from the body, opening the pores externally, separating all foreign and obnoxious particles from the chyle, so that the blood, of which it is the origin, must be thoroughly pure and necessarily securing a free and vigorous action to the Heart, Lungs, Liver and Stomach, thereby restoring health, by opening the pores, cleansing the veins and arteries, unimpeding all the natural veins and purifying the blood; they render the system not only thoroughly sound, but also impervious to disease, even when all other means have failed.

Within the last twelve months, more than one hundred cases of the most aggravated forms of Dyspepsia have been cured by the medicine, where rigid dieting, the Blue Pill, and almost every other means had been resorted to without any benefit, and when death stared its miserable victim fully in the face. If Dr. Gordon's PILLS were not adapted to the cure of any but this horrid malady, their uniform success in this disease alone would be sufficient to 'waft on to fame' the name of their inventor, as a benefactor of his species. This medicine never fails to cure the worst cases of piles in one week!
